EFFICACY

in vitro

MOISTURIZING POWER

The study was carried out through three double blind tests with 20 volunteers of dry skin and ages between 40 and 65 years. To determine the variation in skin hydration of the volunteers, the area applied was measured by means of a corneometer.

A two-month treatment with ELASTFORM increases hydration by 25.5%.

in vivo

DECREASE OF WATER TRANSFER LOSS

The measurement of transcutaneous evaporation was performed using a device called Tewameter. It is a device that measures the density gradient of the TEWL (Transepidermal Water Loss) by means of two pairs of temperature and relative humidity sensors.

The study was carried out using a double-blind trial in which half of the volunteers were given ELASTFORM and the other half a placebo cream, in order to compare the results.

The loss of dermal water is reduced by 30.5% after a two-month treatment with ELASTFORM
